Statistical Week

from September 10th to 13th, 2024

Ostbayerische Technische Hochschule
Regensburg

The Statistical Week is organized by the German Statistical Society together with the Association of Verband Deutscher Stadtstatistiker (VDSt).

The German Society for Demography (DGD) will be represented with additional sections.

All statisticians are invited to participate with presentations and / or posters. Submitted contributions will be subject to a review process. It is also possible to propose whole session units (consisting of three to four presentations).

Young scientists of the DStatG are especially encouraged to submit whole session units.
